The alpha layer can be set to mask or shaded to create the effect of blending color and texture onto an image. Arrow | Allows you to draw shapes or lines, and you can rotate, resize, and reposition them. You can add color or add alpha transparency to arrows to create more than one line. Face | Arranges the face of a character, person, or animal into a group and then adds color and transparency to it. You can modify the face's position and rotation, along with the type of eyes, nose, and mouth. Halo | Creates a circular light or halo effect to draw attention to an object or add a secondary color to an object. Guide | Creates a thin line that is used as a reference. You can create guides that indicate horizontal, vertical, and diagonal lines on an image. Gradient | Creates a faded line or gradient, which you use to make the edge of a subject more prominent. The Gradient tool is good for creating sharp, soft or faded lines. Highlight | Creates a lighter version of an area in the current layer. Highlight layers can
